

EXPOSED:

THE TORY IMMIGRATION RACKET AND HIGH TREASON

THE BRITISH NATIONAL PARTY has always claimed that the Tory party were not sincere in their rhetoric against illegal immigrants and bogus asylum seekers. It was Tory Prime Minister Harold MacMillan who first let West Indian immigrants into Britain; it was Tory Prime Minister Edward Heath who let the Ugandan and Kenyan Asians into Britain; it was Tory Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher who let in the Vietnamese boat people and invited the Hong Kong Chinese (2 million of them!); and it was Tory Prime Minister John Major who invited another 3 million Hong Kong Chinese here and let in 600,000 more immigrants on top of the nearly 2 million immigrants that Thatcher let in!

The Tories have always been the pace makers in the effort to flood Britain with immigrant cheap labour — which was the reason MacMillan started the process in the first place. Full employment at that time was driving up workers' pay demands and it is no coincidence that organised labour was among the first opponents of mass immigration — as immigration led to a larger labour pool and hence depressed wage demands. The perception of many that the Tories are 'better' on immigration than Labour would be laughable were it not so tragic.

But in a little publicised news item, the Tories themselves blew the gaff on their treason — and collaborating to have the country invaded by millions of foreigners is treason. At root of it is that Blair's New Labour propose to enforce the Tory controls against bogus asylum seekers. This is to reassure Middle England that Labour are continuing the Tory agenda. But the headline 'Labour to send back 50,000 migrants' sent panic through the Tories. Conservatives have warned that the move will upset race relations and in doing so have let the cat out of the bag. They have been revealed as the party which makes speeches on the subject of Immigration: The Tories love it! Lots of cheap labour keep wage demands down and profits up immigration and which passes pitifully weak curbs on new migrants so as to appear 'tough' yet they are the party which initiated the whole immigration process in the first place and who never enforced their own measures because those measures were never meant to be enforced!

A deliberate deception has been perpetrated upon the British people and the country has been given away by Tory politicians who in earlier and happier times would have been hanged for what is nothing short of naked treason.

What foreign invaders have tried and failed to do over 900 years, the Tory traitors have managed within a generation. The suffering of our people since then has been enormous.

As Mike O'Brien the Immigration Minister said: "The Tories talked tough but failed to act firmly. Ministers were not prepared to ensure that their own policy was carried out." Jack Straw of all people has ordered an immediate increase in the rate of illegal immigrant removal since 13,000 of the illegals are subject to an ignored deportation order from 1993! Only one in four illegals ordered to be deported actually go because there is no mechanism to enforce the orders. Tory governments have deliberately starved the immigration service of cash to make its own deportations unenforceable. What would be thought of a war time high command giving its troops rifles with dud ammunition?

New Tory leader Hague has clearly set out his intentions for another Tory government when he said: "I want to see more Conservative MPs who are black. I want to see more Conservative MPs who are Asian. I want to see more Conservative MPs who are women." Hague is as politically correct as the most fervent loony left-wing Labour councillor.

The future is clear: the British people will continue to suffer until real patriots put our country to rights again.

DESPOT STRAW

Home Secretary Jack Straw is to press for a new law so that racially motivated crimes will receive up to two years more than others. Why a mugger mugging an old lady should receive a lesser sentence than someone who does exactly the same and shouts racial abuse as he does so is mind boggling. Even so, this will merely formalise the existing state of affairs introduced by Tory Home Secretary Michael Howard when he instructed judges to take account of racial factors as 'aggravating circumstances' and which would attract a heavier sentence as a result.

This is akin to giving someone accused of theft a heavier sentence if motivated by class envy!

It is tempting to condemn the move since the motivation of a crime should not be the concern of the law, it is only the crime itself. Nevertheless, since politics has overtly entered the judicial process, BN applauds Jack Straw since there is every evidence that it is whites who are increasingly the victims of such racial attacks.

BN reminds both readers and Jack Straw that in areas such as London's East End and the Yorkshire and Lancashire cotton towns, some Asians are perpetrating a seeming policy of ethnic cleansing whereby any whites in 'Asian areas' are targeted for systematic racial attack. Whites are not the only victims of course. Blacks are too! Black youngster Trevor Coveley was murdered in Millwall by Asians as was a black student at the University of East London in Newham. Nothing is heard of these murders of course because the perpetrators are not white and hence don't fit into the neat 'racial attack' stereotype.

Furthermore, last year four whites were racially murdered to a deafening silence from the establishment media. Last month in BN we reported the unprovoked racial attack in Halifax upon a little 8-year-old boy who was set on fire and an absolutely horrific racial attack in Bethnal Green, East London involving up to 30 Asians with knives, axes, chains bottles and sticks who attacked a small group of white boys playing football. Are these the racial attacks that Jack Straw has in mind when he says he wants another two years for cowardly racists? BN doubts it. Even so, he could have shot himself in the foot with this one since the growing number of white victims of racial attack leaves this proposed legislation wide open to publicise the terrifying racial attacks being faced by the real British.

SCIENCE — BRITAIN CAN STILL BE BEST!

Despite legendary government indifference, British scientists are still the best in the world and account for many of the world's most important inventions. In terms of scientific papers produced Britain is second only to the United States and well ahead of Japan and Europe. But faced with no government support for the development of ideas, many turn abroad to see their ideas come to fruition. As a result, Britain loses hundreds of inventions per year abroad which are exploited by foreigners. Government timidity ensures that entire product lines and even industries are lost to the UK which would bring increased prosperity and employment. Britain loses some £156 billion per year as inventions are exploited abroad.

It shouldn't be like this. Under a BNP government, it wouldn't be. Despite the depths of mediocrity Britain has sunk to under successive Tory and Labour governments, Britons are still capable of surmounting the stifling government created atmosphere of failure and defeat. British can still be best. Britain can lead the world!

● Recently an optical clock accurate to within one second every 5,000 million years was unveiled by British scientists. Physicists Paul Taylor and Mat

Roberts at the National Physical Laboratory have used a single atom of a metallic rare-earth element called Ytterbium and manipulated its internal workings with lasers to get the unprecedented accuracy.

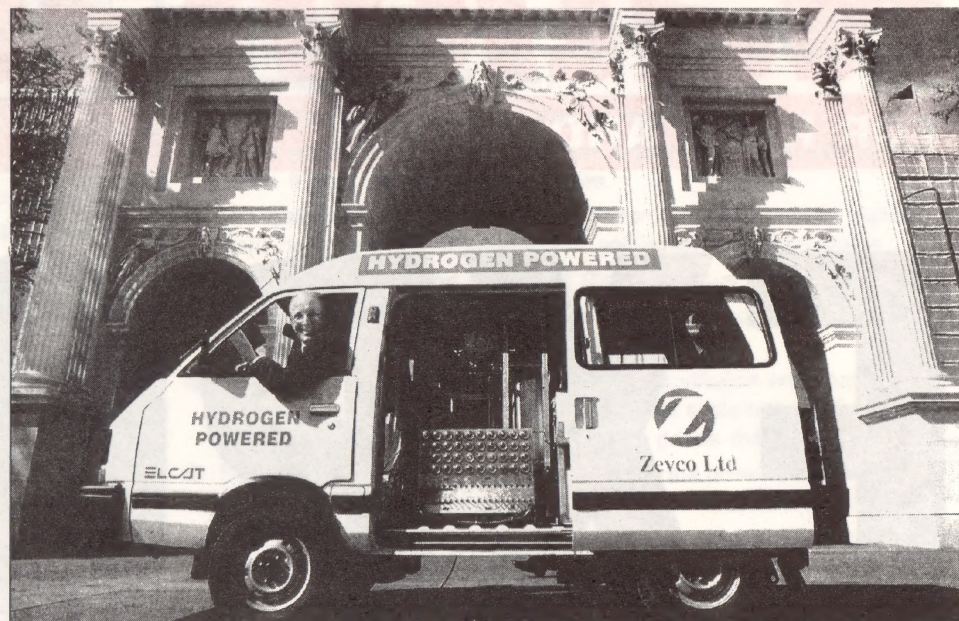

● And following on from the new light treatment therapy called photodynamic therapy to treat skin cancer without chemicals and laser treatment and which was featured in BN of June last year, another medical breakthrough comes with a new treatment to cure severe back pain. Gone is the cutting away of bone followed by 18 months physiotherapy with the risk of disk and nerve damage and in is a new treatment called endoscopic laser foraminoplasty developed by the Spinal Foundation in Rochdale. It has been developed to deal with overgrowth of the joints and is particularly effective for people whose conventional back surgery failed. One cause of lower back pain and sciatica is the narrowing of the hole through which the sciatic nerve leaves the spinal canal is enlarged by the laser which also removes old scar tissue. Relief is immediate and the patient returns quickly to a normal life.

● British company Zevco have cracked the biggest difficulties facing battery powered cars: price, range and speed. For no matter how 'green' people are, no-one wants to drive a milk float! The new breakthrough is based on an alkaline fuel cell, creating electricity from hydrogen and oxygen with water

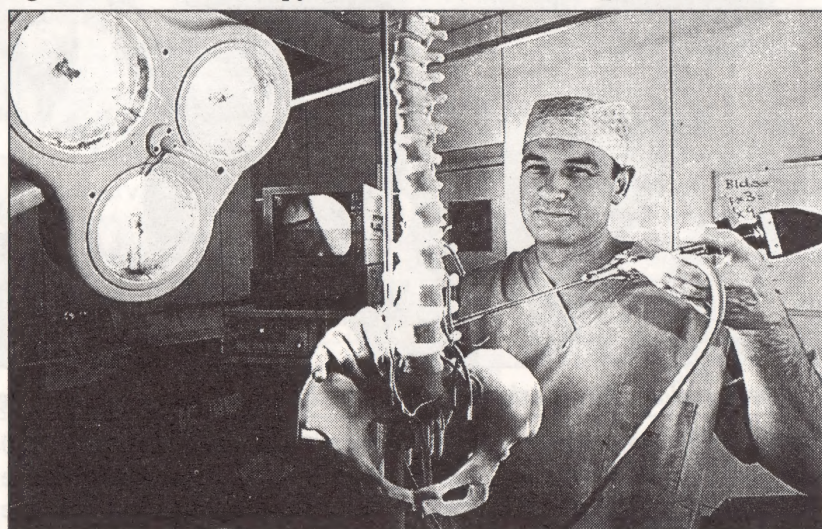

The Zevco fuel-cell uses hydrogen to power vehicles, and is superior to batteries

CLOSED THROUGH LACK OF INTEREST

The anarchist group Class War, has closed down and has publicly cited lack of interest in left-wing ideals as being the reason. Class War preached theft from supermarkets, class hatred and violence and was involved in the Trafalgar Square poll tax riots. The last issue of Class War, the paper, admits: "We are marginalised, fragmented and declining in influence. In short, what passes for a revolutionary movement in this country is pitiful... if our ideas are so brilliant, why do we collectively amount to so little and have so little influence?"

Coincidentally, rumours abound that the anti-British race-hate group, the so-called Anti-Nazi League (ANAL) is also to close down. The ANAL organised the riot in Welling directed against the BNP's bookshop with their spokesperson declaring that they would dismantle the building brick by brick. Frustrated in this endeavour, ANAL racially attacked and hospitalised a black policeman instead!

For two hate groups to be closing down in quick succession, or even thinking about closing is good news for all fair minded and freedom loving Britons. Good riddance to bad rubbish!

FOREIGN NEWS

Following BN's report on the French General Election, it has been pointed out that BN made an error. To set the record straight BN prints this letter from our correspondent who was in France at the relevant time:

Dear Sir,

It was good to read your report, in June BN, about the French General Election in which the Front National received 15% of the poll. This figure was for the first round. However, in those constituencies where the party proceeded to the second round of voting, their average poll (that is, for the second round) was somewhat higher.

I feel though, that I must correct your erroneous report that it was Le Pen's daughter who won the FN's single seat. Although Marie-Caroline Le Pen topped the poll in the first round, as did a number of other FN candidates around the country, she was beaten in the second round which is the one that matters.

The one FN candidate who was successful in being elected in the crucial second round was Jean-Marie Le Chevallier. He was elected for a Toulon constituency (The French navy's equivalent of Portsmouth).

A CORRECTION

The other Toulon constituency also came close to being won by the FN, with their candidate getting 47.32% of the vote.

Even though the party gained just the one seat, they came close to it in a number of constituencies and the signs are that their support is still growing.

As a headline in Le Monde (their closest to the Guardian) stated: 'Le Chevallier intends to speak in the name of 4 million French people.' That headline is a measure of the way things are moving.

J. Warner, Surrey.

White Always, Just White

Pure White, honourable White is now a dirty word in a dirty world, abused, run down by those who hate. Dishonoured, disgraced by those without pride — white nationalist pride. Aryan pride! But for us who remain and know, in our hearts and minds and beings, in our world of worlds, we remain White always, just White.

THE SURRENDER OF BRITAIN

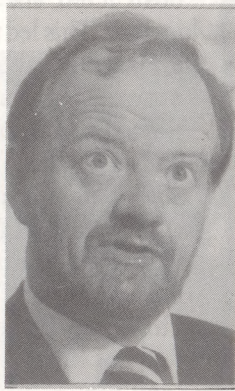

Spineless British Foreign Secretary, Robin Cook is to ratify a United Nations convention which robs Britain of more than 60,000 square miles of valuable economic territory. Rockall, in the Atlantic ocean will be lost to Britain's economic prospects even though it still remains part of the United Kingdom. The convention which disregards uninhabited rocks and islands without an economy means lost fish and lost mineral rights which are particularly important since oil is being prospected for in the region by major oil companies. The loss for Britain runs into billions of pounds. The National Federation of Fishermen's Organisations has condemned the decision as has Bob Allen, chief executive of the Scottish Fishermen's Association who said: "We can't support giving up an area that size. Our boats now face international competition if they want to develop a fishery for unexploited deep water species."

What is particularly worrying is that the European Union holds that fish stocks of all member nations are a common resource. That principle is merely waiting to be applied to Britain's North Sea oil and gas reserves and those in the Atlantic. The political storm would be immense and any British government would be bound to resist it. Even so, Rockall could be the thin end of the European wedge. It is not outside the bounds of possibility that the EU might decide to 'administer' the Rockall question. If so, it is surely just a short step before making a play for North Sea oil and gas.

BN reminds Robin Cook that while under the Law of the Sea uninhabited islands may only have an economic zone of 12 miles rather than 200, the convention also indicates that in the case of a nation's continental shelf extending beyond 200 miles, it is entitled to exploit the resources of the sea bed up to 350 miles. As Rockall is 200 miles from St. Kitts in Scotland, that means Britain need only 'lose' an effective 50 miles west of Rockall since Rockall is lying on just such a continental shelf.

ROBIN COOK

Thus even though Cook may have ratified this treaty, there is no reason for any substantive loss of economic benefit. BN will be looking to see Cook fighting Britain's corner.

The Sun promotes Race-mix agenda

Race-mixing perverts in the media are having a field day in their propaganda efforts to see more interracial marriages. The object of which is more raceless children to promote the liberal 'dream' (read nightmare) of a raceless world.

The Sun has followed the saga of 'mudhut housewife' Cheryl Mason and her Masai husband Daniel ever since their marriage when they settled on the Isle of Wight. If it was so idyllic in the Sudan why didn't race-mixer Cheryl stay there? Typically The Sun was cooing over the repulsive sight of pregnant Cheryl and her 'Masai warrior'. No doubt there will be a follow up for the birth. BN hopes The Sun will provide its readers with a free sick bag.

Media-promoted genocide

BATTLE FOR FREE SPEECH, LIBERTY AND FREEDOM

Belief in our 'free and democratic' Britain took another knock last month when schoolgirl Sarah Briggs criticised her school's poor academic record — exactly the same criticisms made by the school inspectorate — and was expelled by Nicola Atkin, head of Queen Elizabeth's School in Notts.

Amongst other criticisms were that tight budgets had led to staff cuts, low morale amongst teachers and a greater reliance upon supply teachers who cannot, in all fairness, simply pick up the baton as they have no way of knowing exactly what stage pupils have reached.

Atkin claimed that Sarah's criticisms would affect the school's ability to attract new students, hence the expulsion. This is nonsense. For BN, this is a straight issue of freedom of speech. The school's ability to attract new students was affected at the time of the school inspectors report and this is what parents look at. Furthermore, given the publicity the expulsion has caused, Atkin has done most of the harm herself.

The fact is that people like Atkin abound in all walks of life — intolerant, politically 'liberal' bullies. Legislation is badly needed in this country to protect and guarantee in law freedom of speech and dissemination without fear of the consequences — otherwise we have no free speech worthy of the name.

Head teacher Atkin, who when she grows up wants to ban trades unions, make race-mixing compulsory and conquer Poland needs at the very least to be reprimanded for her intolerance and her incompetence in the damage which she has done the school.

Curry Watch

This Curry Watch reports that no less than two Balti Houses have been closed down by court order in a move which will alarm curry fans everywhere. In Buxton, High Peak magistrates backed a decision to close the Chapel Balti house after evidence of rat infestation on the premises. Rats were found in the cellar, kitchen and in a basement food store. In addition, toilets and kitchen were not kept clean and cloths used to wipe surfaces came into contact with food. The court was shown a dirty, stained and food encrusted, musty smelling rag. The cook had no idea how old the haphazardly stacked food in the fridge was. Restaurant owner Abdul was not present to hear the ruling shutting his Balti.

In another almost identical incident, a Birmingham Balti was closed after it was found infested by cockroaches and mice. The kitchen floor was dirty and covered with food debris, mouse droppings and also dead cockroaches. Visiting health officials were treated to the sight of cockroaches scurrying across the kitchen floor in full view of the owner, Massood Butt. A dead cockroach was also found by the cooking pans near the food preparation area. The closure came after health officials gave Butt several months to clean the premises but found the same serious infestation upon their return. The good news for curry fans is that after extensive refurbishment, the Tabaq Tandoori Balti has now reopened its doors to the delight of all genuine fans of ethnic cuisine.

Another Balti House owner, this time in Bristol has been fined £1,000 plus £330 costs for the smell which emanated from his shop via her kitchen extractor system and which entered neighbouring shops. Rahana Begum admitted failing to comply with two nuisance abatement notices issued by the council's Environmental Health Department.

Curry Watch happens to know that there are entire districts of England in which the smell of curry pervades the air. Why pick on Mrs. Begum in what is clearly a conspiracy against Balti Houses?

But the drive against immigrant restaurants doesn't just extend to Balti Houses. Also in Bristol, two women running the Lucky House Chinese takeaway were fined £1,750 after inspectors found the whole takeaway infested with mice. In addition, mouse droppings were in evidence everywhere, a dead mouse and droppings were found in a bag of rice, mouse droppings were found in the egg noodles and another four dead mice were found variously spread around the kitchen. The two women, Zhen Zu Peng and Jia Nan Hu both from mainland China admitted incompetence in the running of the business.

Worryingly, even grocers are coming under the Health watchdog's stern gaze. Shopkeeper Bakshi Binnig has been fined £1,000 for selling a 13-year-old tin of cucumbers as has Kapur Mehan (both shopkeepers are from Notts), who tried to sell an 18-year-old tin of butter beans with a 1979 sell by date. Magistrates were told that the tins had corroded in both incidents and were contaminated with iron. BN says the persecution of ethnic eateries has gone far enough. Everyone knows that iron is good for you!

BN says it's a shame that members of the ethnic minorities who are making such a big contribution to the economy should be persecuted like this over quite mild contraventions of the health code. If health inspectors close down ethnic restaurants over such trifling matters as rat, mouse and cockroach infestation and dirty, unsafe food then where will connoisseurs of the ethnic food experience eat? BN's resident Curry Watcher says get down to your local Balti before they're all closed down!

ANOTHER BLOW FOR RACE RELATIONS

Somalis are taking the 'Chunnel' to the good life here in Britain. Welfare benefit packages of £260 per week including housing and child benefit for a couple with children make Britain the biblical land of milk and honey — all paid for by the generous British taxpayer! Somali 'refugees' fleeing from alleged civil strife don't stop at Italy or France. No, the gravy train goes right through the 'Chunnel' to Waterloo! Airlines get fines for transporting 'refugees' through a safe third country, but not so Eurostar. Waves of Somali 'refugees' could change that though as the pretence of 'refugee' status is so blatant.

● One of the reasons why Britain cannot afford the education and health Service we would all like to see is because of sponging 'asylum seekers' and 'refugees'. Worst still, the British benefits system is seen as such a soft touch that many think that benefit fraud is in fact a right to which they are entitled!

Shukri Musse, a mother of six who fled Somalia claimed income support while working full time as a laundry operator. She told Bristol magistrates that she thought everyone in the country was entitled to it as of right!

Dopey magistrates gave her a conditional discharge despite the fact that she swindled more than £11,000 out of the taxpayers pockets. Musse arrived in Britain in 1992 and is now applying to stay in Britain despite the fact that Somalia is at peace and even undergoing some degree of prosperity.

● Favourite places for Somalis to settle

are London and Cardiff. Again, a few bad eggs are spoiling it for others. A single report in The South Wales Echo listed five mugging incidents in Cardiff. All the robbers were working in gangs of 3-5 and all were described as 'black, 6ft tall and thin' or 'of East African appearance'. Oh dear!

Over the last 15 years, the [Tory] government has extended and concentrated the powers of the state. The rights of people to organise have been considerably constrained; the media censored, the powers of the police extended and the rights of defendants diminished. Basic human rights have been denied to people on the grounds of national security; local democracy has been weakened and unelected quangos are now responsible for more public money than elected local councillors are.

LABOUR CRIMINALITY, LABOUR SHAME

Labour have had a bucket load of sleaze and scandal sloshed over them in the last month. First Labour suspended four senior Labour councillors in Doncaster (see June BN) for corrupt practices, then they suspended the entire Doncaster district Labour party! Excessive hospitality levels, corruption, bribery, abuse of expense accounts and foreign trips and the awarding of council contracts are all being investigated. However, as with all the other corrupt Labour councillors — who have cost taxpayers hundreds of thousands, if not millions of pounds — there are no criminal charges. No sooner was this scandal held out for public inspection when Bob Wareing, Labour MP for Liverpool West Derby became the first MP to be barred over an undeclared fee in a deal worth £6,000 with a Bosnian company. Labour apparently believe this pathetic punishment adequate. Again, no criminal charges are to be brought.

●Labour, never shy of recruiting thugs to their party have had to suspend Ken Brookman who "behaved like an animal" and bit the ear off of a man on a passenger train in which Brookman was travelling. The incident happened after Brookman, who had been drinking heavily, barged Diane Perris out of her train seat, insulted her by calling her a "fat cow" and then attacked her husband. Brookman, a councillor in Pontypridd admitted unlawful wounding but was given a pathetic two-year conditional discharge and ordered to pay his victim David Perris £1,000 compensation.

●The National Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children confirmed that a Labour party activist who was HIV positive had sexually abused children in his care for years. Mark Trotter, 34 who died of an AIDS related illness assaulted the children in Hackney East London and in Liverpool, where he had worked previously. Last year, Labour councillors in Hackney tried to cover up the child molesters Labour links and obstructed the investigation. This led to a split in Hackney Labour party between those who wished to cover up the abuse and those who did not, which mirrored a similar case in Islington where councillors failed to act against child molesters for fear of upsetting the 'gay' vote!

●The failure of any public investigation into the child abuse scandal in North Wales can only lead to suspicion of involvement by politicians, policemen, judges and civil servants. BN suspects high profile Labour involvement. Indeed, the police still have active files on at least one former Labour MP for suspected child abuse. The Crown should act against the criminals and the perverts. But it won't and the young'll suffer.

JUDGE CONDEMNS NIGERIAN FRAUDSTERS

It took Recorder Leonard Woodley QC, a black judge born in Trinidad to call a spade a spade and grasp the nettle of Nigerian fraud. Some criminals of some communities typically commit stereotypical crimes. With Nigerian criminals, the favourite happens to be fraud. In sending down a Nigerian gang for a 'black money' scam where some fool is duped into handing over large sums to 'clean' the black money (supposedly US $100 dollar bills painted black and smuggled out of Nigeria), Recorder Woodley QC said: "I am going to make an observation which other judges cannot make because they might be accused of being racist. This sort of offence is being committed by well-educated Nigerians." Woodley's remarks didn't go down to well in some circles because in the liberal never-never land the truth cannot be told and there are laws designed to ensure that no white person can make the observations that Judge Woodley did without risking prosecution.

The remarkable and hideous thing about the Race Relations Act is that the truth of what is said on this subject is no defence in law. Defendants have been told by trial Judges that "The truth of what you have said is no defence." (Regina V Pearce); and "The truth is irrelevant." (Regina V Birdwood).

This is the nature of the totalitarian beast which is the Race Relations Act.

WHEN THE CHICKENS COME HOME TO ROOST

Last month saw two separate tales of the multi-racial society visiting itself upon its own supporters. It made very satisfying reading. Ian Hislop, editor of Private Eye described in the Sunday Telegraph magazine how after he had settled down on his train home for the evening, he asked three black youths to stop smoking next to him. He was ignored. Others also asked them to stop and were abused. Finally, in the piece mistitled 'You want peace. They want trouble. Do you stand up for your principles or risk getting knocked down?', Hislop described how one passenger finally went over to them and demanded they cease smoking and when told to sit down, knocked the cigarette out of one of the youth's hand. The three youths then gave this man a thorough pasting.

In his account, the obligatory black victim, a woman knocked over by the louts railed against their behaviour saying "These hooligans drove me out of the teaching profession." (Liberals always manage to find a supporting ethnic when making any criticism just so as to make the point that they aren't 'racist'. Heavens no!) Hislop, himself not being particularly heroic, uttered not a peep. Hislop's mistitled piece should, of course, have read: '... Do you stand up for your principles and risk being knocked down, or do you let yobbish louts walk all over you?" While Hislop may favour the latter course, the very fact of his writing this article — unthinkable a few years ago — will set many stouter hearts thinking.

CHERYL GILLAN MP:
Wiser or hopelessly stupid?

Another case involved Cheryl Gillian, Tory MP for Chesham & Amersham. Mrs Gillian suffered a robbery when her car became snarled up in traffic and a particularly athletic 'youth' opened the car door, snatched her handbag and raced away with it. Typically, this story came as another blow to race relations. As have also, the spate of knife point robberies in which the wealthy have been followed from Knightsbridge and Harrods etc., before being mugged and having their watches worth thousands of pounds taken. Known as the rolex robbers, these muggers have caused much concern and a number of robbery squad officers are on the case — mainly one suspects because the muggers are targeting the wealthy and influential.

When the multi-racial realities of life start being visited upon the wealthy and influential and not just upon the knocked-about working class, then is the time that the chickens start coming home to roost and that is the time the winds of political change will gradually start to favour us more and more. That time is now!

I don't like war criminals any more than the next man: but I derive no pleasure from our brave troops forming snatch squads in Serbia to arrest them.

We should never have become involved in that unpleasant local quarrel. It was nothing to do with us either strategically or diplomatically. It will become us to pose as the policeman of the world — I thought that when we rid ourselves of our imperial obligations it meant that other countries would have to sort themselves out.

If the Americans wish to play this game, let them. I am yet to be convinced that the aftermath of Yugoslavia deserves to endanger the life of a single British soldier. [38 have so died — Ed] Simon Heffer, Daily Mail

In Bosnia, the Government dispatches troops to shoot dead alleged mass murderers; in Britain, Tony Blair now prepares to shake their hands. We refer, of course, to farcically lax terms on which Sinn Fein/IRA has been offered entry into talks on Northern Ireland's future. Think for a moment, what has happened here. Once upon a time, the terrorists were told that they had to give up their guns before they got into talks about the future of the province; then, that condition was abandoned, and they had only to begin handing in their guns during the talks. That stipulation has also been abandoned. Now, they simply have to consider giving up their weapons, but if they don't they will get — yes — more talks. In short, a sovereign democratic government is prepared to accept they can keep their murderous instruments and play a full part in legitimate politics.

Does this approach betoken 'statesmanship' and 'very real political skill', as the Government press machine would have us believe? Or is it, as the family of one of the murdered RUC constables observed, the sign of weakness and a lack of principle? The Daily Telegraph

The arrogant chumps who dish out Lottery cash have dropped their biggest clanger yet. They've sent £25 million of OUR money abroad, for projects like schools in Uganda. To do that, they spurned deserving pleas from this country for lung disease research and helping runaway teenagers.

No one should be discriminated against because of their sexuality. But there is a difference between opposing discrimination and supporting the whole agenda of 'gay' rights that campaigners now demand: 'Gay' marriages, 'gay' sex education in schools, and a lower age of consent. All are based on the [erroneous] concept that every form of sexual behaviour is valid and should be respected, no matter how promiscuous or bizarre. This outlook is the dominant creed of our age, but it has damaging consequences for our society.

Take marriage and the family. In the brave new world of 'gay' rights, no moral distinction is made between the sacrifices involved in bringing up children within a stable relationship and irresponsible hedonism. Both are presented as just different lifestyle choices. Such a disastrous message is now being given out to schoolchildren.

In the warped climate of explicitness, where all moral boundaries have dissolved, it is not difficult for paedophiles to develop an internal justification for their actions. After all, what are they doing but expressing their own sexuality?

Leo McKinstry, Daily Mail

Government ministers and members of the Northern Ireland Office should consider how we handled a similar situation to that of Ulster 40 years ago in Cyprus.

Nearly 80 per cent of the island's population were Greek Cypriots who wanted union with Greece (enosis); Sinn Fein/IRA has the support of less than 20 per cent of the population in Ulster.

In April 1955, the Greek underground organisation Eoka launched an armed campaign. Its main action was against the security forces, and so many police and British servicemen were killed on one street that it was named 'murder mile'.

A state of emergency was declared allowing detention of Eoka members and their supporters and the death penalty for any convicted murderer. The Greek leader, Archbishop Makarios, who supported the campaign, was arrested, flown by the RAF to Mombassa and conveyed to the Seychelles by the Royal Navy, where he remained lodged in the Governor's holiday bungalow. The emergency lasted less than four years.

Although nearly 80 per cent of the population were Greeks, there was no equivalent to the Anglo-Irish Agreement with Greece, nor was the Greek government allowed to interfere in any way in Cyprus's affairs. Compare this with the soft way that Sinn Fein/IRA has been treated by successive British Governments.

With the Anglo-Irish Agreement in existence and Sinn Fein running to Dublin and Washington for help, how can the IRA be put down? This is supposed to be the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland.

On what grounds do foreign governments have any say in the internal affairs of this country? Apart from Hong Kong, which was a very unusual case, Northern Ireland is being treated worse than any colony. Never before have we permitted a foreign government to interfere, either at home or in the colonies, with our own internal affairs.

Cancel the Anglo-Irish Agreement and for once really take on all supporters of Sinn Fein/IRA. Otherwise the emergency will last for another 30 years.

SCANDAL IN THE NHS

The National Health Service is being eaten alive by crooks from within. At every level within the service, fraud by doctors, opticians and surgeons is rife. Opticians claiming for two pairs of spectacles supplied instead of one and surgeons for extra hours they've not worked. But it is the doctors who have most scope to abuse the system and some of them are bleeding it dry.

● In Manchester, doctors have been claiming thousands of pounds for fictitious patients and patients no longer alive, two of which died ten years ago. The allegations made by nurse Irene Harrison-Bond is to be investigated by the Manchester Health Authority. Dr. Sharma and Dr. Parihar have denied all the allegations which they have blamed on mischief-making.

● Gillingham in Kent — which is predominantly English — is another town which apparently finds it difficult to attract English doctors there. The Kent health Authority shows a total of 32 doctors registered in 18 practices in Gillingham. Of the 18 practices, just one practice is wholly white and 16 practices are wholly Asian, as no less than 26 of the doctors (81%) are from the Indian subcontinent.

● A v o n Health Authority claim that Black nurses are superior to white nurses. In a bid to improve the Health Service for ethnic minorities, more black and coloured school leavers are to be targeted for NHS recruitment. This is presumably because white nurses are inferior and because a white nurse couldn't possibly know how to treat a black patient! All this has echoes of black racist MP Diana Abbott's bigoted outpouring against white nurses before last Christmas when she attacked white Finnish nurses who "may never have seen a black person, far less touched one."

● For the privilege of seeing your local Asian doctor, Labour have suggested that you might have to pay a fee, alongside overnight fees for staying in an NHS bed and receiving treatment.

which has come as bombshell should not be underestimated. Labour is intent on running the laissez-faire economy better (cheaper) than the Tories. It will be Labour that bring in widespread workfare, it will be Labour which will clobber pensions and it will be Labour which will reduce the 'burden' of the NHS by scrapping its free basis.

MURDOCH'S PAWN ATTACKS BNP

Britain's newest black paper New Nation went into hysterical overdrive at the end of last month. The subject of concern? The BNP. Apparently, a single BNP leaflet had been left on display at Sidcup police station. This provoked the hysterical response with New Nation devoting the whole of its front page to a black woman who had noticed the leaflet after dropping in for directions.

News of black achievement, inventors and geniuses must have been thin for this particular issue of NN because the over-the-top treatment extended on to page two with a decent-sized picture of 'the offending leaflet', which was in fact one side of the two-sided leaflet 'Make Britain safe' and popularly known as the 'hot cross bun' leaflet because of the red cross on its reverse.

Strangely enough, the BNP leaflet was described as 'filth' by the racists at New Nation. Yet this is the paper which in the same issue ran as its star letter a racist rant which took satisfaction in the death of designer Gianni Versace since he was a 'bloodsucker' on the black community who 'despised' blacks (no evidence of any of this was offered).

New Nation is headed by Elkin Pianim the son of a Ghanaian dissident and who has married Media tycoon Rupert Murdoch's daughter, Elizabeth Murdoch. Murdoch, a notorious rootless cosmopolitan and race-mixer is backing his son-in-law to knock out the competition (The Voice) and make a stranglehold on all black publishing. Nevertheless, New Nation has been heavily criticised for its early issues — possibly for factual inaccuracies, like the one NN made about the BNP having a pre-election meeting in Sidcup.

As for the BNP leaflet, it proposes a war against crime to make our streets safer and which would raise the quality of life; the rebuilding of a sense of community by restoring full employment, support for the family; rejecting the imposition of alien values; providing discipline in the classroom; support for the police; and rejecting 'political correctness'.

Black racism is, it seems, OK but the BNP's programme against an imposed colonial settlement is in some way reprehensible. But then, they are the colonisers so what more should we expect?

Letters

Write to: The Editor, British Nationalist, PO Box 117, Welling, Kent DA16 3DW.

Sir,
My wife and I would like to become members of the British National Party. We are both 50-years-old and have worked all our lives and brought four children up. My daughter joined the BNP a few weeks ago. It just seems that this country is geared up to give ethnics everything they want with housing and benefits while the real British are getting a raw deal.
Mr. Hewlett,
Lancs.

Sir,
Our local authority like all such organisations has senior management of the self righteous holier-than-thou 'politically correct' liberal type.

However, I have noticed an anomaly amongst this curious species and I wonder if your readers could shed some light on the subject. Eager as management executives are to endorse the council's latest 'One world Racial Equality celebrating Diversity' festival, there's not one of them that lives in what could be called a multi-racial area. In fact, they live in more monoracial parts, and by monoracial I mean white.

To make matters even worse for we Yorkshire Tykes, our local MP, Ann Taylor, who is a stout defender of multi-racialism and well aware of the immense contribution immigrants have made to the quality of our lives, has for some reason chosen to live in the almost exclusively white Holme Firth, heart of Last of the Summer Wine country.

I'm sure that there must be a straight forward explanation for these apparent contradictions, but I'm afraid it escapes me for the moment.

A. Braithwaite,
Dewsbury.

Sir,
Further to sending at the end of May for a copy of British Nationalist. I was impressed by the article covering housing, immigration, the NHS and you morality stance. I found nothing to which I could disagree with. I wish to subscribe and I will be forwarding my membership fee.

J. Orchard,
Cornwall.

Sir,
Glad to see in the members' bulletin, a prompt to spread the word through the shires and reach disillusioned Tories. The 'Surrender on the Right' leaflet sounds just what is needed for this area. Currently, I am working alone so 250 would be fine for me at the moment. I've ordered 50 British Nationalists for distribution in Peterborough and Stamford and I hope to increase the order when I get some recruits! Enclosed also is £10 for the Uxbridge campaign. Good luck on that.

C. Green,
Peterborough.

Sir,
Please enrol me as a member of the BNP. I've just seen the South Birmingham group of the BNP contest the Kings Norton ward. Their commitment and presentation really impressed me — I've never seen people so dedicated in what they are doing. Even with a fairly low vote of 50, their spirits were not dented. They

BN BRIEFING

THE AFRICAN DREAM

White South Africa used to be an oasis of calm, prosperity and order amongst the chaos of the rest of Africa. No more. The new multi-racial South Africa sees 300 robberies, 65 murders and 66 rapes every day! Whites are leaving in droves. Once the level of whites drops below the point at which South Africa can function, the country will collapse into the anarchy that prevails in the rest of Africa.

WHAT FUTURE FOR YOU?

Last year no less than 825,000 people were made redundant. 825,000 had their livelihoods disrupted because of the failure of the British economy.

THEY'RE COMING!

In Hull, the impact of immigration from Hong Kong is evident by a six-year scheme to provide Government money for projects linking housing associations and ethnic minorities. Last month, BN warned that government funding of housing associations had its explicit aim as the spreading of inner city multi-racialism to the suburbs and the shires. The first 21-home complex in Hull, a mixture of homes and bungalows is solely designed for Chinese. Whites need not apply for these nice new properties. So decided is the issue that there is no number 4 or 14 in the complex since these numbers are considered by Chinese to be unlucky. Front doors are painted in the lucky colours of red and green. Leeds, Liverpool and London all have similar sites.

ON THE DOLE AND OVER HERE

Thousands of islanders from Montserrat are living in Britain drawing the dole and claiming housing benefit while their sunny paradise island waits to see if the resident volcano blows its top. Another 6,000 may also arrive in case the government decides to have done with it and simply evacuate the island. Why should they come here? What debt does Britain owe Montserrat? The answer is none at all. Does BN feel sorry for them? Possibly, but the world is full of hard luck stories and we can't feed and house them all.

SERVE THEM RIGHT!

In Parliament 17 MPs are leading an assault upon Christian prayers by calling for a worship rota system. Buddhist one day, Muslim the next and Christian the day after etc. Typically it is arch-liberals like Liberal-Democrat Donald Gorrie who are pushing for the move which will end 300 years of religious tradition. Julian Brazier MP the Tory for Canterbury is opposing the idea, but Westminster politicians like Brazier who have failed to oppose immigration can hardly complain.

said: "We will build on that." Brilliant attitude I think.

D. King,
Birmingham.

Sir,
British Nationalist has become essential reading for me, not only reflecting my own views, but also providing often heartening news to be found nowhere else. Keep up the good work.
Gordon Bobby,
Kent.

Sir,
After seeing on BBC1 news that 20,000 people from Montserrat have come to Britain on full benefits can I, when their volcano goes quiet, move to their sunny isle on their full benefit to escape Britain's grey weather and anti-white government?

K. Davall,
Staffs.

COUNTRYSIDE COMES TO THE BNP

One of the biggest news stories last month was the Countryside Rally in Hyde Park, London. The protestors from the countryside went to the capital to demonstrate their opposition to the proposed fox hunting bill. Nevertheless, this wasn't the only issue being protested since country people had correctly worked out that the real issue was not fox hunting but the threat to their whole way of life — and that they ought to hang together or assuredly they would hang separately.

To illustrate the point, last year 216,000 hunted with hounds but more than 4 million took part in rural sports including shooting and fishing — all of which are under threat. In addition, many went to protest at the government banning guns themselves.

In the event, at least 100,000 people went to Hyde Park — more than the 92,000 who protested the Poll Tax in 1990. These people were there because the issue goes beyond hunting. They felt disenfranchised; under attack by an urban majority ignorant of rural values, traditions and beliefs. What they wanted was recognition and understanding.

Into the park of 100,000 went the BNP. A well-designed 2-sided A4 leaflet was produced especially for the occasion and the six BNP activists who went handed out all 5,000 leaflets in just 1½ hours. Since many had travelled down on coaches and minibuses for the occasion, the readership would have been considerably higher.

The leaflet team split into three pairs and restricted themselves to different parts of the crowd which was uniformly friendly and very pleased that townies also took an interest in the countryside. It would have come as some surprise to them that the BNP is not just a single issue party interested in the cities. The response from the protestors was overwhelmingly positive and the leaflet teams were impressed by the quality of the people present. They were fitter, more alert and had healthier instincts than their city cousins. Young and old, male and female. All were present and made a good impression. All of the BNP leafleters were approached by people who had 'missed out' and wanted a leaflet and one team was approached by a woman who wanted thirty or so. A few seconds later and a look back in her direction showed that she was energetically leafletting on our behalf!

some of the women present were. Typically thirty or forty years of age, not one or two but five or six women at different points sized up the BNP leafleters very quickly and heaped praise upon them.

The nationalist overtones to this event were delib-

THEME-PARK BRITAIN

How 'politically correct' townies are killing our country

ANOTHER farmhouse lies derelict, either to fall down or to become a yuppie weekend cottage. Yet another family swallowed up in the city, while more and more farms every year are taken over by city speculators, while village schools, pubs and shops become holiday homes. Rural Britain has been systematically neglected and depopulated by a system based on city 'values' and short-term greed. What has this got to do with Field Sports? Everything!

Our masters in Westminster and the media have forgotten that a healthy countryside is the backbone of a nation. Their only concern is to preserve a few pretty bits as a summer theme park and tourist trap. The idea of a rural Britain which stands on its own feet, which has its own industries, traditions and sports actually frightens our urban masters, because it doesn't need them. They need our taxes, but rural Britain doesn't need the parasites in parliament, Whitehall and the TV studios. But people who don't need their 'help' make these power-junkies uneasy. That's why they 'love' the 'underprivileged, multi-racial inner-cities', and it's why they hate the real people of rural Britain.

That's the real reason for their attack on country sports. Animal 'welfare' doesn't come into it. If it did, they'd do something about the scandal of halal and kosher ritual slaughter, whereby hundreds of thousands of animals every year are slowly bled to death without any pre-stunning, in ways which would land any slaughterman in prison. But the Labour Party and most 'animal welfare' fanatics turn a blind eye to this 'religious' savagery, just as they ignore the huge numbers of lambs taken by foxes and badgers. After all, cuddly foxes are politically correct, whereas native Britons, and our traditions and livelihoods don't count. We only built this country, we only pay the taxes — so we don't count!

As a matter of fact, the masters of urbanised Britain don't give a damn about foxes either. If they did, they would be so keen to condemn them to slow death by poison, habitat destruction and gangrene from bullet wounds (where they are going to find 'marksman' in a country where they've outlawed target shooting?). What they really care about is destroying our identity, our sense of belonging, our nationhood. To hundreds of thousands of Britons, their sense of identity is intricately bound up with hunting or other field sports — that's why they're the latest target.

That's also why weather forecasters don't use temperatures which actually mean the most. That's why you can't buy pre-packed potatoes by the pound any more. That's why the county regiments have been amalgamated out of existence. That's why our kids come home from school knowing more about 'colonial exploitation' in Africa than about our own history. That's why TV soaps portray homosexual perversion as acceptable, even preferable. That's why our cities (because British people there are targets too) have been filled with hideous tower blocks and with strangers from every part of the globe. That's why our political and economic freedoms are being submerged in a European super-state. That's why 'they' won't leave anything alone.

What we are facing is the organised destruction of our identity and freedoms by an out-of-touch but immensely powerful political and media élite. It can only be stopped, let alone reversed, when large numbers of ordinary Britons unite and organise to resist and reverse the process — when we British organise to take back control of our own country. That's the purpose of the British National Party.

Some of the countryfolk on their march to London: rural & patriotic!

erately played down by the media since the size of the crowd created a very big impression. But from the platform, speakers could clearly be heard echoing exactly the points made in the leaflet. The politicians were creating a "Theme Park Britain" said one speaker and the countryside was becoming an amusement park. "We need jobs too" he said. Another speaker railed against the animal rights lobby's concern for cute cuddly foxes when absolutely nothing is done about the scandal of tens of thousands of animals killed by halal and kosher ritual slaughter, where animals have their throats slit without any pre-stunning and are left to bleed to death thrashing around in agony as they do so. Using poison and traps (on foxes) he said was infinitely worse, and nobody shows any concern for rats which are also pests — but not at all cuddly. Another speaker strongly attacked the way in which the taxes of country folk go towards supporting "gays, lesbians and other politically correct garbage."

The distribution of those 5,000 leaflets represented a definite plus for several reasons. Firstly, the people involved were politically aware and hence receptive to the leaflet's message, secondly they represented a good type of person, thirdly the leaflets reached many thousands living in remote country areas which have probably never had a BNP leaflet at all and fourthly the leaflet exercise will have helped break down the BNP's reputation as a single issue party. All in all, a very worthwhile exercise. Well done everyone concerned!

NORTH WEST — ALL SYSTEMS GO!

Without letting the dust settle from the General Election, activists in the North West have been very busy with both local and regional activities. Towards the end of June, activists held a regional day of action in Altringham and despite poor weather, teams of activists spent the whole day distributing large quantities of leaflets and back issues of British Nationalist throughout the area.

Then on Saturday 12th of June, a number of activists from across the region travelled to Southport for the North West activists in amongst the people giving out leaflets and selling BN

KINGS NORTON WARD, BIRMINGHAM

The new South Birmingham group of the party led by Lee Windridge, and not Jeffrey Astbury as reported in July BN, have got stuck in very quickly with Nigel Deering standing for election in the Kings Norton ward of south Birmingham. Kings Norton has not been contested by the party before and the ward fell outside the Birmingham Northfield constituency the party contested in the General Election.

Wards in Birmingham are three times the size of wards in London and with little notice of the election, by the time the party was ready to campaign in the area, a scant two weeks was available. With 17,000 addresses in the ward, the party was always going to be pushed to leaflet the whole ward. Even so, the number of leaflets put out by the group was inadequate. All BNP groups and branches must be realistically able to leaflet the whole of their target area. Nevertheless, South Birmingham is a new group and allowances can be made particularly in respect of the keenness of candidate Nigel Deering and the willingness to try new ideas. One of the reasons for lack of traditional Loyalist march there and a large number of BNs were sold to the many people enjoying the parades in the glorious sunshine.

Throughout the region, Organisers have been very busy following up the large number of enquiries generated from the General Election and are pleased to note a welcome influx of new members. One of the notable things is that the quality of these new members is much higher than in the past [this is noticeable throughout the country — Ed] and it is thought that the party's more modern approach to British politics may be bearing fruit in ways other than just election results.

The General Election provided an additional boost for the North West with Rochdale BNP relaunching itself into the struggle after a period of relative inactivity. Other organisational advances include the very good Rossendale group expanding its operational area to include East Lancs. It is hoped that new groups may result from the expansion, and to help in this, Rossendale is to acquire its own contact address and telephone line.

leafleting was that the group spent a lot of time and effort into making up placards to attach to lampposts in the run up to the election. Organiser Lee got the permission of the relevant authority, paid a returnable fee and slapped up more than fifty placards in time for the election. The result, given a low turnout and very little leafleting was nearly 2 per cent of the vote. Not brilliant, but not bad either for a first outing and very little leafleting done.

The full results are: Labour 1,731; Conservative 700; Lib-Dem 184; BNP 50 which came to 1.9%.

ELECTIONS ROUNDUP

MOORFIELDS WARD, HACKNEY

Unlike the election in Kings Norton, a tremendous amount of work was put into Moorfields ward, with leaflet teams out throughout the week and at weekends pounding the streets, leafleting and canvassing. The BNP candidate was party stalwart Victor Dooley who deserves a lot of credit for his perseverance and 'never say die' attitude.

From the start, it was apparent that there was a tremendous feeling against Labour and that local people would be voting anti-Labour. The by-election had been caused by the suicide of the sitting Lib-Dem councillor who had switched to Labour just before his death. Speculation that his ex-colleagues were going to leak the details of his homosexual lifestyle were never confirmed.

In the event local people let down by the Lib-Dems and their councillor's defection to Labour, and thoroughly disillusioned with Labour itself, voted Conservative as the party best able to defeat Labour.

In many respects the party didn't get the vote it deserved. The Hoxton market area is still predominantly a decent white area and well cared for council houses and flats characterised the area with baskets of flowers hanging from porches. Strong feelings were found against crime and alienation as well as the council — which means Labour!

The party spent nearly a month campaigning very intensely, with each door having two leaflets delivered and with nearly every door canvassed. Everywhere, the people agreed with the BNP on all the issues, with the campaign message being vote against Labour run Hackney council because of the appalling crime and alienation. Late in the campaign 700-800 copies of April and May BN were delivered with headlines: 'Vote BNP' and 'New era for Nationalism'. A noticeable feature of the campaign was that there was no hostile reaction to the party at all. Whites agree with the party's message, and even blacks are beginning to accept it with local blacks being pressured by new waves of immigration from Somalia and Asia. 'Stop immigration' makes sense to them too! BNP canvassers told them: "We don't want Labour to win." "You're right," they said.

At the end of the day, nearly everyone in Hackney agrees with the BNP that Labour are no good, and we should put the British people first. But despite the party's hard work, the local grapevine had it that the Tories were the best bet to stop Labour and give them a ringing slap in the face. Congratulations once again to candidate Vic Dooley and to all the activists that helped in the very good campaign.

The full results are: Conservative 697; Labour 419; Lib-Dem 363; BNP 45 (2.96%) and Independent Socialist 30.

MONEY NEEDED!

The General Election made very big financial demands upon the BNP and the party is, at the moment, financially exhausted. The party urgently needs donations to regain a sure financial footing. Please send as much as you can afford to enable the party to take advantage of the increased political opportunities which are opening up with the advent of the new Labour government.

Please make all contributions payable to 'British National Party' and send to: PO. Box 117, Welling, Kent DA16 3DW.

If you want to make contact with any of these units write to the address given. Where no address is present or if you want details to start a new unit, please write to:-

UXBRIDGE BY-ELECTION

The overview of this election in which the unfancied Tory candidate, local man John Randall defied the extraordinary efforts of Labour and his own head office's belief that his was a lost cause show three things: Firstly that people don't like being told what to do; secondly that Blair, who put a lot of his personal credibility in going to Uxbridge, came a cropper; and thirdly that the new Tory leader Hague, who didn't even dare go to Uxbridge, fearing and expecting failure is as wimpy and grey as his predecessor.

The Uxbridge campaign was similar in some ways to the Moorfields ward by-election (see done for it and there are three reasons for this. The first is that the party was caught napping by the Tories in calling the election for July 31st instead of an expected date in September and which would have allowed a longer campaign with much more work being able to be put into it. In hindsight, the six or seven weeks that was allowed to elapse between the sitting MP dying and the party committing itself once the election was called was a mistake. As it was, by the time the paper work was finished and preparations put in place, the party was left with a scant two weeks in which to campaign. The second is that this traditionally Tory seat had the three with the word 'national' in their description there was some confusion. This undoubtedly helped the Nat Dems at the party's expense. Looking at the respective party scores in the General Election when the BNP trounced the Nat Dems, there is every likelihood that the Nat Dems got as much as half their vote from voter confusion with the BNP.

Even so, the BNP got nearly one-third as many votes again as the Nat Dems, nearly twice as many votes as the NF and more than five times as many votes as the UK Independence Party which had a disastrous election. Nevertheless, the BNP can take

p. 7). Enough work was put into it to have expected a better result than was obtained. A well-written good quality 2-sided 2 colour A4 election address was delivered across the whole constituency, courtesy of the post office, and 90% of the constituency was also leafleted by the BNP campaign team with an additional 2-sided 2 colour A5 election warm up leaflet. In addition, some light canvassing work was also undertaken although it has to be said that the amount done barely scratched the surface.

Congratulations are in order to the candidate Frances Taylor, the Yorkshire housewife who saved her election deposit in May in her homebase of Dewsbury and to all the London and Home Counties activists that took part and also to activists from Bristol and South Birmingham who travelled to help on successive weekends.

In the event, the result was a poor one despite what work was become a knife-edge marginal in May so that in the by-election all the other parties were squeezed including the third placed Lib-Dems who saw their support halve from 11% of the vote in May to just over 5½% this time. The third factor that lowered the BNP vote was that National Democrat candidate Ian Anderson was first on the ballot paper, while the BNP's Frances Taylor was last. There is no doubt that for voters unfamiliar with the various party names, particularly little comfort from these facts. Finishing behind the Socialist Party's Julia Leonard is no disgrace since she is a local personality and a sitting local councillor (having defected from Labour); finishing behind the Official Monster Raving Loony Party is quite a different matter. Had not the vote splitters of the NF and NDs been standing, the vote would have topped 470 votes to put the party into fourth place. After this litany of excuses, here are the results.

What we stand for

- The establishment of a government of national unity that will put an end to nationally divisive party warfare; the return of leadership and statesmanship to British affairs.
- An end to immigration and a start to repatriation.
- British withdrawal from the European Community: trade with Europe where it suits us but no political ties.
- The disbanding of the multi-racial Commonwealth and its replacement by a new Commonwealth of self-governing white states.
- British ownership and control of British industry and resources.
- Protection of British industry by the selective exclusion of foreign manufactured goods from the British market.
- An end to the financial swindle that causes inflation and slump, and its replacement by a sane and fair financial system that will give the people the purchasing power to buy the goods they produce.
- The subordination of the power of the City to the power of Government, and the harnessing of the City to the needs of British industry.
- The regeneration of British farming, with the object of achieving the maximum self-sufficiency in food; also the restoration of the fishing industry by protection of our traditional fishing grounds.
- A healthy environment for a healthy people — the protection of our countryside and an end to the architectural disfigurement of our towns and cities.
- Tougher treatment of criminals, including the return of the death penalty.
- A return to traditional methods of education, with stronger discipline in the classroom and the sacking of 'trendy' teachers.
- An alternative defence strategy: withdrawal from NATO; closure of all foreign military and air bases in Britain; British withdrawal from the war in former Yugoslavia, where no British interest is at stake; the bringing home of British forces from Germany; the strengthening of Britain's defences and a position of armed neutrality.
- An end to overseas aid and the allocation of the money saved to the financing of repatriation and greater help for the needy at home.
- The crushing of the IRA, the termination of the Anglo-Irish agreement and firm support for the loyalist majority in Northern Ireland.
- A return to healthy moral values aimed at strengthening the family and community.
